line won over Princeton in a league soccer game here this afternoon by a score of 2 to 0. The visitors started the game with a rush, scoring both goals in the first half. Barron registered both points, the first on an inside pass and the second after a scramble under the Princeton goal posts, in which both he and the Princeton goalkeeper, Cohu, were knocked down. The Tigers played a much faster game in the second half, but were not able to score. They were handicapped by the loss of Scheerer at outside right, who has been declared ineligible, and Shaw at inside right. The Tiger forwards were slow and did not make the most of some opportunities to score. Penn showed excellent team work and accurate passing.

line proved fruitless, and Foley punted to Rutgers' 10-yard line.

Bracher fumbled the catch and Kelly fell on the ball for Holy Cross. On the next play Foley shot around left end and scored a touchdown, while the rooters for the New England eleven shouted and stamped their feet in a frenzy of joy. The ball was punted out for the try at goal from touchdown, but no Holy Cross man could get his hands en it, and the score stood Holy Cross of, Rutgers O.

First blood had been drawn by Holy Cross within the first five minutes of play, and those in the Rutgers stands sat in stunned silence. Sanford, who had been sitting with a party of friends in the grandstand, squirmed about uneasily in his seat, and finally strode out to the side lines, as though to encourage his men by his presence.

Rutgers was penalized fifteen yards for holding and was forced to punt. Walsh, standing on his 10-yard line, signalled for a fair catch, but missed the ball, and it bounded off at a sharp angle. Those in the stands rose in the seats threatened.

At times the New Brunswick eleven Holy Cross worked a double pass to showed great power in its attack, nota-

Rutgers managed to keep the ball in Holy Cross territory during most of the second half, but poor judgment on the second half, but poor judgment on the part of Captain Scarr, at quarter, fumbles at critical moments and a general looseness of play spoiled several chances to score, and the showing made by his men must have been a disappointment to Foster Sanford, the coach.

Multiple Kick Fails

Twice the New Brunswick team tried to score goals from the field by the use of Sanford's multiple kick formation, but each time the ball went wide of the goal posts, once from a difficult angle and once from squarely in front of the cross-bar, with the ball resting on Holy Cross's 40-yard line.

The formation itself worked perfectly, Hazel having plenty of time to get his kick away before the opposing team could break through to block, but the Rutsers fullback erred just a triffe in his direction and the attempt to score was a failure.
